Stage Set for Benedictine Ball at Armory Tonight

There Will be Two Orchestras And An Elaborate Program to Please the Many Patrons Who Will Attend—Additional Patrons.

Promptly at 7 o'clock this evening the big doors of the armory will swing wide open to admit the large gathering of people who have been looking forward to an evening of rare pleasure at the Easter Monday Ball. On Saturday many willing workers transformed the big drill shed of the armory into a gorgeous ballroom, bringing out the most artistic in its architectural possibilities. A brilliant spectacle awaits the guests.

Scattered throughout the large room are many attractively decorated booths, which will cater to the inner man's needs. The alluring beauty of the refreshment booth will beckon to the hungry. Home cooked food and beverages will be sold at this booth. The thirsty will be attracted to the uniquely decorated lemonade booth and will come away refreshed by the cooling draught. The smoker's every need has been anticipated at the cigar and cigarette booth. Flower lovers will feast their eyes upon the delicate beauty of the flower booth and the dainty boutonnieres it will display. Color and charm have reached even the orchestra stands and made them fit into the decorative scheme, while the reception committee's corner makes a separate appeal.

Two of Kingston's most popular orchestras, Paul Zucca and his orchestra and Jack Erne and his broadcasting orchestra, will present a concert program at 7:45 and the entertainment program will start promptly at 8:15. Because of the number of features, it has been thought best to start the entertainment at 8:15 so that assembly dancing will not be delayed. Dance devotees and those who heed the lure of terpsichorean art less often must not miss any of the snappy dance music that has been especially prepared by these masters of rhythm.

Auxiliary Grateful.

The officers and members of the Benedictine Auxiliary anticipate that this will be the largest ball, financially and socially, in their history and they are deeply grateful to the people of Kingston and vicinity for their generous support and loyal cooperation, without which this tremendous task could never have been accomplished. The attitude of friendly interest that has been met on all sides has smoothed over many a hard task and given zest for the next. The officers take this opportunity of thanking each and every person who has helped make this ball the brilliant success it is bound to be. Too many to list individually have given liberally of their time, their merchandise, their money. For even the least of favors received, the auxiliary is grateful.

An evening of real pleasure awaits all who come to the armory this evening. The double purpose of helping a worthy cause and enjoying a pleasant evening is sufficiently appealing to attract a great crowd. Doors will open at seven o'clock. Concert will start at 7:45 and the most attractive program seen in Kingston in many a day will begin at 8:15 promptly. Tickets will be on sale at the box office.

Additional Patrons.

The following names were inadvertently omitted from the patron list for the Benedictine ball published last week: William F. Edelmuth, the Rev. Louis Cusack, A. RAILWAY PATROL GANGS MAKING REPAIRS

Highway patrol gangs are at work making repairs to several of the improved roads which were damaged by the winter frosts. Sum of Money Found.

This morning a sum of money was picked up in front of 131 Abeel street. The person who lost it should get in touch with police headquarters at the City Hall.

Charge Theft of Wire and Cable

State Troopers Arrest Two Men Loading Telephone Wire and Cable in Auto at Mt. Marion—Held for Further Investigation.

Martin Ryan and Charles E. Sleight, both of this city, were placed under arrest Saturday night by State Troopers on a charge of grand larceny in stealing copper wire and cable from the New York Telephone Company. Both were held in $1,000 bail for further investigation.

Early last week Sergeant James Cunningham of the State Troopers received a complaint from Albert Dwyer, an official of the New York Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York, to the effect that a quantity of cable had disappeared from the vicinity of Mt. Marion where the company is stringing a new cable.

Sergeant Cunningham immediately took up the case and stationed Troopers Bentley and Sutphen in the vicinity of the work. After several all night watches the two were rewarded Saturday night when they found Ryan and Sleight engaged in loading a quantity of the valuable cable in their car. The Troopers placed them under arrest. The two were charged with grand larceny and taken before Police Justice Clyde F. Gardner at Saugerties where they were held under $1,000 bail for further investigation. Bail was secured and the men were allowed to return to their homes.

Sunday Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Baker with Sergeant Phinney of the local police force continued the investigation and located about $500 worth of the cable in this city where it had been brought.

The case will be further investigated and it is likely that there will be additional information brought to light and possibly more arrests in connection with the disappearance of the cable.

During the investigation by the Troopers a quantity of the cable was located in a barn at Mt. Marion. The cable had been cut into short lengths. It was from this clue and by watching the barn that the arrests were made.

Cases in Police Court Adjourned

Two Charges Against Frank Calabrese Adjourned to April 28—Basch Case Again Adjourned—Landerway's Case on Saturday—Jones Fined $5.

Frank Calabrese was arrested at his home in Aliaben at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning by Sergeant Phinney of the city police force on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Ray Levine, charging Calabrese with grand larceny in the second degree. Mrs. Levine alleges that in July of last year Calabrese gave her a check for $300 in payment of merchandise he obtained at her store at 79 Broadway. She says she placed the check in the bank and it was returned marked "No account." The hearing was adjourned to April 28.

Calabrese is also held on another charge growing out of an automobile deal on complaint of David Schenck. This case was also adjourned to April 28.

The hearing of Abraham Basch on complaint of Fred Whispell of 108 Gage street, who claims Basch cut him in the hand with a knife, was again adjourned to May 3.

Troge Jones, 42 years old, a negro residing on the Staples brickyard, was fined $5 for public intoxication. Saturday evening the police received a call that some one had set fire to a mattress on a bed in the Jones home while some of the Jones children were asleep in the bed.

Leo Landerway, 19 years old, a negro residing at 235 Catherine street, was arrested at his home early this morning on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree in helping himself to the automobile of Mary Gonsalbe of 69 Chambers street, parked in her garage on Hasbrouck avenue. The car was later found abandoned on Maple street. The hearing was adjourned to Saturday.

Traffic Heavy, Many Violations

State Troopers Patrol Highways Sunday, Warn Some Motorists, Arrest Others—Motor Law to Be Strictly Enforced.

Automobile traffic was heavy Easter Sunday in spite of the uncertain weather. State Troopers patroling the main roads in the county report traffic heavy and violations of the motor law frequent. Many motorists received warning and others guilty of more serious violations were placed under arrest. The summer patrols on the main highways are now on the job with motorcycle men attempting to regulate traffic and keep the highways safe.

At Highland Corporal Norton and Trooper Klein arrested James Sarle of Flushing, L. I., on a charge of reckless driving. Justice Harold Lent imposed a fine of $5 which was paid. Shortly after Robert Byers of Ordell, N. J., was arrested for the same offense and the same justice imposed a $10 fine but suspended payment.

The Orange county-Kingston highway will be one of the main highways which will be closely watched this season for reckless driving. The nature of the road and the speed at which many of the cars travel over the highway has made that road dangerous and two patrols will keep watch over the section.

The Saugerties road will also receive attention this season as well as the Palenville mountain highway above Saugerties.

On account of the construction near Phoenicia this year there will be no motorcycle patrol at Phoenicia but a man will be stationed on the Ashokan boulevard near Shokan.

Senator Reed Ill, Trial Adjourned

Detroit, April 18 (AP).—Illness of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of counsel for Henry Ford, caused adjournment today of the $1,000,000 libel suit filed against the motor manufacturer by Aaron Sapiro, Chicago lawyer. The trial probably will be resumed tomorrow.

Senator Reed suffered an attack of acute indigestion early today as he neared Detroit on a train from Washington after a visit to the Capital.

Increase Levees Of Mississippi

Relief Agencies Care For Refugees Driven From Their Homes—Hope Renewed For Relief In Upper Reaches of Arkansas and White Rivers.

Memphis, Tenn., April 18 (AP).—Levees of the Mississippi today were being increased in height along the lower basin as a record tide of waters moving southward pressed with immeasurable weight against the earthern walls.

Refugees numbering perhaps 10,000 persons, driven from their homes by backwaters or overflow from many tributaries of the great stream, were under the care of national, state and community agencies of relief. Other thousands were moving their properties from valley lands, where the floods might break through at any hour.

Hope was renewed today for relief from destructive waters in the upper reaches of the Arkansas and White rivers, tributaries of the Mississippi, and in the mother stream itself around Cairo, Ill., and Hickman, Ky., where the height of the current has menaced the dykes for weeks. Slight declines in the stages were reported from these upstream points.

Meanwhile, eastern Arkansas lay under the swirling overflow waters of the Arkansas, the White, the Little Red, the St. Francis and of smaller streams, which have climbed over natural banks or burst man-made restraints to cover an immeasurable area. Highway traffic was virtually suspended and train service was spasmodic or entirely paralyzed because of washouts and inundation of tracks.

An official estimate for Arkansas alone placed the number of persons driven from homes by the hostile waters at exceeding 20,000 and acres overflowed at more than 1,000,000. Property losses have reached a staggering figure which no one now dares calculate.

Refuge and relief camps at Hickman, Ky., under direction of Red Cross officials and state authorities, are sheltering two thousand homeless in churches, barns, railroad cars and tents. Public kitchens are serving the needy with food. Organized women are sewing and collecting and distributing clothing to relieve the unfortunate.

Bogus Money Traffic Solved

Agents Arrest John H. Mayes Amidst Paraphernalia of His Money Making Craft—$800,000 Distributed by Ring.

St. Louis, April 18 (AP).—With the arrest of John H. Mayes, 35, secret service agents today declared they had solved the puzzle of approximately $800,000 worth of bogus money distributed by a ring which included four notorious gangs.

Mayes was arrested yesterday in a small house in Murphysboro, Ill., where he had been living with his wife and three children and turning out thousands of dollars of counterfeit money. Two government agents working under the direction of Stephen A. Connell, secret service chief of the St. Louis district, made the arrest.

Aligned with Mayes, Connell said, were the Birger and Shelton gangs, whose bootleg wars in southern Illinois have attracted wide attention, the Cal Morgan gang of bootleggers and counterfeiters in Universal City, Ind., and a St. Louis band of counterfeiters.

The latter gang, Connell said, distributed $270,000 of bogus $20 bills printed by Mayes. The plates from which this issue was struck were then sold to the St. Louis counterfeiters, who issued $290,000 of the same type of notes. Members of this gang were later rounded up here and in Kansas City.

The third issue of $250,000 was in progress when the ring leader was arrested amidst the paraphernalia of his craft.

Both the Birger and Shelton gangs bought his currency, Connell said, and passed it among each other as payment for liquor debts, and among outsiders who bought liquor from them. One gangster passed the word to another, Connell related, and soon the counterfeit money was being distributed by an army of bootleggers and gangsters in all the large eastern cities and in southern Illinois.

The car was recovered and turned over to Mr. Forst.

Byrd Forced Out Of Non-Stop Race

From New York to Paris Due to Injuries Received When His Plane Turned Over While Landing After a Test Flight.

New York, April 18 (AP).—A dual non-stop air race from New York to Paris loomed today as injuries forced Commander Richard E. Byrd, one of America's three foremost entries, from competition for at least six weeks.

The contest, as a consequence, apparently has narrowed to the plane "American Legion", piloted by Commander Noel Davis, and the Wright-Bellanca monoplane in which Bert Acosta and Clarence D. Chamberlin shattered all records for endurance flying.

Commander Davis has scheduled a series of tests at Langley Field, Va., where he planned to return today after the christening of his plane at Mitchel Field.

A new motor installed in the Wright-Bellanca craft was given preliminary tests by Acosta yesterday in a flight over Long Island.

The pilot of the Bellanca plane has not yet been decided on although the hopoff is scheduled to take place within two weeks. Neither Acosta nor Chamberlin is a navigator and the toss of a coin may decide which of them will go as pilot.

Commander Byrd was injured in an accident to the Byrd plane, which hit a soft spot of ground and turned over while landing after a test flight.

Byrd had recovered sufficiently last night to leave the hospital but Floyd Bennett, Byrd's companion on the North Pole flight, was suffering from shock, a fractured right thigh and numerous lacerations. Lieutenant George Noville, who was to have been radio operator on the flight, suffered contusions of the leg.

12 Buildings Burn At Mt. Marion

Finger Estate Suffers Big Loss When Buildings and Contents Are Destroyed Saturday Night—Saugerties and Centerville Fire Companies Save Two Residences.

Fire of unknown origin which started in a cow barn on the Finger estate at Mt. Marion about 6:15 o'clock Saturday evening, destroyed 12 buildings with contents, including hay, farm machinery, two cows, two calves and a horse.

The damage is estimated at $15,000 partly covered by insurance. Among the buildings destroyed were a hay barn, granary, horse stables, cow barn, chicken houses, ice house.

The Centerville Fire Company of Veteran and T. B. Cornwell Fire Company of Saugerties responded quickly to a call for help, arriving in about thirteen minutes after being notified.

H. Clinton Finger, second deputy county clerk, in charge of the local motor vehicle bureau, says he is very thankful to the firemen for the hard and successful work done by them as they saved two nearby residences of brick and stone on the farm where he lives. Mr. Finger sells farming machinery and supplies on a large scale, which were stored in a warehouse that was destroyed with contents.

The firemen stretched two lines of hose to the creek through which streams were forced by their gasoline pumping engines. Three other buildings were saved as they were some distance away.

Used Masks in Fighting Fire

Early Morning Fire in Clothes Closets at 28 Hoffman Street Caused Such Dense Smoke Firemen Were Forced to Wear Masks.

Mrs. Mathilda Becker was busy this morning cleaning house at her home at No. 28 Hoffman street and when she started to clean out a dark closet under the stairway she lighted a kerosene lamp with a tall chimney which she placed on a shelf in the closet to illuminate the closet while she was cleaning it. She was called away for a few minutes and the lamp set fire to the wall paper and then burned its way through the ceiling to the second floor which is occupied by the family of Edward Barker.

The Barkers' clothes closet is located directly above the dark closet in the Becker apartment, and the fire from the lower closet set fire to the closet above which was filled with clothes and bedding.

The fire threw off a dense, heavy smoke and the firemen responding to a still alarm, found it necessary to wear gas masks to aid at the fire.

Due to the quick response of the firemen and the prompt use of chemicals the fire was confined to the upper and lower closets and their contents.

U. S. Cruiser Fired On.

Washington, April 18 (AP).—The United States cruiser Cincinnati has twice been fired upon on the Yangtze river, Admiral Williams, commanding the American fleet in Chinese waters, reported today to the navy department.

Abduction of Two Cabaret Men

Professional Abductors Believed Involved in Disappearance of Jake Adler and Frank Galello, Wealthy Owners of the Midnight Frolics.

Chicago, April 18 (AP).—A band of "professional abductors" which has been plying its peculiar brand of piracy in Chicago and Detroit for a year, was believed by Chicago newspapers to be involved in the mysterious disappearance of Jake Adler and Frank Galello, wealthy owners of the Midnight Frolics.

The two men, with the chauffeur, Tony Albino, vanished early Thursday, while they were motoring home. As is usual under the code of gangland, no official word of the disappearance reached the police, although the authorities took cognizance of the case after rumors that the men were held for ransom which underworld accounts placed at $100,000 and $200,000. Friends of the cabaret men, according to the same accounts, were negotiating with the reputed kidnappers, and were ready to pay $100,000 in cash for the prisoners.

The Herald and Examiner said it had learned that the abductors were headed by a former hanger-on of a North Side gang of hoodlums and booze wholesalers, and that the gang numbered fewer than ten, recruited in Chicago and Detroit. Up to the present victims of the band had been wealthy men of the underworld but in the belief that operations would be extended, Chicago police were trying to run down the abductors and break up their operations.

The newspaper said it was determined by detectives that the same band kidnapped Clarence Lazarus, former South Side gambler, and held him three days, when his friends bought his release, although Lazarus's relatives said he had suffered an attack of amnesia. Another kidnapping laid to the band, according to the newspaper account, was that of Harry (Hickory Slim) Belford, who was threatened with death until his relatives paid $50,000.

ASK DR. O'MEARA, HE KNOWS IF FREEMAN ADS. ARE READ

Mixup in Telephone Numbers Causes Great Annoyance to Doctor.

As it is not considered ethical for surgeons and physicians to advertise, Dr. Mark O'Meara, up to Saturday afternoon, had no experience with advertising and could not have given an expert opinion as to whether or not advertising pays. He is now a fully qualified expert on this question, especially as it relates to advertising in The Freeman. This is the way it happened:

Joseph Southard, whose telephone call is 117-R, advertised for laborers. Through misunderstanding the telephone call given in the advertisement was 1174, which is Dr. O'Meara's telephone number.

There are laborers, scores and scores of them who read The Freeman and want to work for Mr. Southard. If you do not believe it, ask Dr. O'Meara. He knows, as the cigarette advertisements say. From the time the papers got on the streets until late in the evening it was a continuous performance and the doctor and various members of his household had to organize a relief system whereby someone could sit at the telephone continuously. As soon as the cause of this sudden activity was figured out the calls were turned back to Mr. Southard, who probably got some return for his advertisement. Anyway, Mr. Southard's telephone call is 117-R and he wants laborers. Dr. O'Meara does not need any laborers.

Governor Smith's Reply to Marshall About Religion

States He Recognizes No Power of Roman Catholic Church to Interfere With the Operations of the Constitution of the United States or Enforcement of the Law.

New York, April 18 (AP).—Editorial comment was widespread today on Governor Smith's open letter stating that he recognized no power of the Roman Catholic Church "to interfere with the operations of the Constitution of the United States or the enforcement of the law of the land." His friends praised it and indicated they were eager to learn what reaction it would have.

The letter was written to the Atlantic Monthly in reply to one from Charles C. Marshall, New York lawyer and Episcopalian, who, quoting ecclesiastical authority, had argued that in any conflict between church and state the Roman Catholic Church claimed the deciding power for the Pope. Mr. Marshall asked the governor to make his position clear.

Publication of the letter today was authorized by the magazine a week ahead of the time first planned, because some newspaper had printed it Saturday and Sunday in violation of copyright.

The Atlantic Monthly characterizes the correspondence as an "historic incident", which may have part in deciding whether complete religious tolerance shall prevail in this country. The questions raised by Mr. Marshall have been regarded as of political importance because of Governor Smith's prominence as a possibility for the Democratic nomination for president.

Governor Outlines Creed.

Outlining his creed as "an American Catholic" Governor Smith asserts: "I believe in the worship of God according to the faith and practice of the Roman Catholic Church; in freedom of worship as a matter of right, in absolute separation of church and state; in support of the public school as one of the cornerstones of American liberty, in freedom of education for children in public or religious schools; in the principle of non-interference by this country in the internal affairs of other nations; in the strict enforcement of the provisions of the Constitution that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

"In this spirit," concludes the governor's letter, "I join with fellow Americans of all creeds in a fervent prayer that never again in this land will any public servant be challenged because of the faith in which he has tried to walk humbly with his God."

The governor cites the nineteen times he has been elected to public office and observed that he never has known any conflict between his official duties and religious belief.

DRIVER UNDER ARREST SAYS HE FELL ASLEEP.

Corporal Baker, of the State Troopers, placed under arrest on Sunday Edward R. Harrigan, aged 26, and after arraignment before Judge Lent at Highland, who held him for further examination, he was brought to the Ulster county jail.

The charge preferred is driving a car while he was intoxicated. It is alleged that Harrigan, who was driving a Maxwell car, crowded an auto driven by Frank Reddington of Goshen off the Milton road south of Highland, damaging it badly. In the car besides the driver were Mrs. Reddington and two lady friends. The Harrigan car turned over but no damage was done to it, not even a glass being broken.

Harrigan told at the court house that he was returning from New York, where he had taken his wife who is ill, and having been up all Saturday night fell asleep in the car after having taken one or two drinks to quiet his nerves. He is employed by a telephone company.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 18 (AP).—Resumption of trading after the Easter holiday disclosed no change in stock market sentiment, which was predominantly bullish. Lowering of the call money rate to 4 per cent, after the renewal figure had been fixed at 4½, indicated that the temporary credit stringency incidental to mid-month and state income tax payments had been passed, and tended to stimulate operations for the rise.

With the industrial average at record high levels, after a sustained advance of several days, heavy profit taking was inevitable in that group, but offerings were rapidly absorbed, and more than a score issues mounted to record high levels. Speculators for the advance also showed a tendency to switch from the industrials to the rails when the former showed signs of halting, Rock Island and Texas and Pacific each jumping several points to record high levels.

New financing by oil companies, combined with unfavorable dividend rumors, was responsible for the renewed weakness of the oil shares. A few other soft spots cropped out here and there but they failed to interrupt the general forward movement.

General Motors crossed 188 to a new high, coincident with the announcement of a new truck, and du Pont sold above 250 for the first time. Remington Typewriter soared eight points to 198, and new peak prices since 1925, or longer were recorded by American Sugar Refining, International Business Machines, Detroit Edison, Montana Power, Green Cananea Copper, Air Reduction, United Drug, Otis Elevator, Inland Oil and several others.

U. S. Steel common held firm around its recent record high level on the ratification by stockholders of the increased capitalization proposed by directors to take care of the 40 per cent stock dividend.

Spanish Girls Dance to Oriental Melodies

Two things one must witness while in Seville—the Sevillana and a bull fight. Girls of all classes dance the Sevillana—in fact, during the spring festival or fiesta, girls of the exclusive classes and families take this means and opportunity of displaying their charms, and being properly chaperoned by approved grand dames, dance the Sevillana in the little open drawing rooms called casetas which line the streets like booths along a midway.

This graceful dance, dignified even in its coquetry, is accompanied by the click of the castanets. The dance, like most others in Andalusia, is an expression of an intermixed race, and naturally follows in its music all the original melody brought into Andalusia by the Moor and the Jew. The unmistakable mark left by these races is distinctly recognized in these dances of Andalusia. Spain and Castille, triumphant since the time of Ferdinand and Isabella, cannot efface Islam and the Orient. The castanet is of gypsy origin and probably hails from the regions around the Black sea. To watch the Sevillana is a privileged experience, steeped as it is with the charm and romantic history of an interesting people—Regina L. Jais, in World Traveler.

Ohio was a popular camping ground for the mound builders. This state probably has more mounds and ruins of these ancient villages than any other state. When not engaged in warfare, mound builders would make crude effigies of animals or draw rough figures on stone.

Fortifications of earthworks for use in battles were often erected at the bend of some river or stream. In this way the mound builders could prevent other tribes from invading their territory. Roughly made spears were the main weapons used. Many of these have been found in the earthen mounds which dot the state.

A survey of the state reveals that there are 1,899 earth mounds erected on low ground, 176 on hills, 43 stone mounds on low ground and 13 on hills.

These mounds have revealed many things. Scientists digging in these historic spots are just as liable to unearth the skeleton of one of these mound builders as he is to find stone pots, utensils or spear heads, says a writer in the Ohio State Journal.

Early National Banks

The controller's office says that the first national bank to open for business under a national bank charter was the First National Bank of Davenport, Iowa. The charter number of this bank, however, was 15. The earliest paper on file in the controller's office pertaining to this bank bears the date of May 29, 1863. The bank was chartered on June 24, 1863, and opened for business on June 29, 1863. The first bank to receive a certificate of authority to begin business as a national association was the First National Bank of Philadelphia. This bank was given Charter No. 1, dated June 20, 1863, but did not open for business until July 11, 1863.

Humor in Music

Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians says of the word "Humoreske" (Humoresque): "A title adopted by Schumann for his 'Op. 20' and 'Op. 88, No. 2,' the former for piano solo, the latter for piano, violin and violoncello. Heller and Gregg have also used the term for pianoforte pieces—'Op. 64' and 'Opp. 9 and 16,' respectively. There is nothing particularly 'humorous' in any of these, and the term 'caprice' might equally well be applied to them. Rubinstein also entitled his Don Quixote 'Humoreske,' but the 'humor' is there of a more obvious and boisterous kind."

Her Beauty Lifts French Girl to Fame and Fortune

One day Mlle. Robert Cusey was a little known salesgirl. The next she was queen of all France's beauties, selected in a contest to select a maid to represent the republic at the Galveston (Texas) international beauty pageant.

PARIS (I-I-N Special)—A cyclonic swirl of fate caught up a twenty-year-old salesgirl and left her on a pinnacle of fame and fortune.

She is Mlle. Robert Cusey.

She was employed in a large dressmaking establishment when her friends discussed, one day, a beauty contest.

"You should enter, Robert," they told her. The girl blushed. They urged her, and she finally consented to allow her name to be enrolled.

One thousand others were entered, too, the fairest of all Paris. It seemed to Mlle. Cusey that there were ever so many who were prettier than she.

But in a few short minutes she was selected from all the others, elevated to eminence over her sisters, and given a ticket to Galveston, Tex. There she will represent France in the international beauty contest to be held there in May. And on top of all that she was offered a contract by a Chicago mail order house to design all its dresses for a year.

"Charleston?" she answered to the question of an American reporter, "why I don't care for dancing in any form. In fact, I am more interested in doing useful work than in parading my features. My ambitions as a designer are greater than as a doll."

Eight Die in Explosion

Caught like rats in a trap, eight persons were burned to death after a mysterious explosion which destroyed four store buildings in Chicago early Saturday morning. Because of the terrific heat, hundreds stood by powerless, while the victims cried for help

Dust as a Shield

A British royal commission on explosions has made some interesting experiments on explosions of mixtures of coal dust and air. It has demonstrated that such mixtures are emphatically explosive, and also that the explosions can be mitigated, or confined to a region; by means of stone dust, which is not explosive.

"A coal dust area" was placed between a dustless region and one covered with stone dust, after which an explosion was produced in the coal dust by firing a cannon. The results appeared to demonstrate that the effect of an explosion may be transmitted to a considerable distance over a dustless zone by the coal dust driven before the air blast, but that the stone dust has a restraining effect.—Washington Star

Ingersoll's Fine Tribute

Probably the quotation to the effect that a man would sleep under a blanket of flowers were each good deed a blossom is the one from Robert Ingersoll's address at the grave of his brother: "He added to the sum of human joy, and were every one for whom he did some loving service to bring a blossom to his grave he would sleep tonight beneath a wilderness of flowers."

The term "Red City," applied to Philadelphia, is probably due to the fact that red was the predominating color originally, many of the houses being built of red brick.

THE FLIGHT TO PARIS.

Three airmen, Byrd, Davis and Fonck, are planning to fly across the north Atlantic in the near future—four, if we include Pinedo whose "four continent" trip was recently interrupted by an unfortunate accident. The time has come when it is reasonable to expect that some if not all of them will succeed. Why not? There have been a number of overland non-stop flights. As long and as far back as 1919 Alcock and Brown crossed the Atlantic in the air from Newfoundland to Clifden, Ireland, 1,936 miles. Since then the south Atlantic has been crossed by aviators twice, and the round the world flight is still fresh in memory, to say nothing of the two Frenchmen who in the summer of 1925 staid up forty-five hours and covered 2,734 miles.

Commander Byrd, who reached the North Pole in an airplane, and until Saturday's unfortunate accident had expected shortly to undertake the north Atlantic passage, is enthusiastically backed by Rodman Wanamaker and will lack nothing in the matter of outfit. It is stated that he aims to fly at 120 miles an hour overland and at 80 miles an hour over the sea. The uninformed inevitably wonder at such relative slowing up over the Atlantic, naturally expecting the greatest speed possible with safety in order to get across as quickly as possible. Luck to Birdman Byrd.

TO OUTVOTE MEN.

Premier Baldwin has announced that the Government will introduce a bill at the next session of Parliament to give women the ballot at 21 (instead of at 30 as at present), thus equalizing their franchise with that of men. This decision finally reached in the Cabinet, after long opposition, is regarded as a momentous one, for such a change will add five million women to the voting list, giving the voting women of Great Britain a majority of two millions over the voting men.

The long fight has been due to the reluctance of conservative Englishmen to give women a potential majority at the polls, involving power to control legislation and the destinies of the empire. Their fear was based on the belief that women are likely to vote unitedly, a belief formerly entertained in this country but abandoned when it was found that ordinarily women voters divide on public questions about as equally as men do.

There may be basis, however, for the fear of British conservatives that a majority of women voters might carry England for prohibition. They know that women in the United States are more unitedly for prohibition than men are, and it is quite probable that the same is true of the women of Great Britain. If the women voters of that country should take away from the men their beloved "brown October ale," undoubtedly the majority of Englishmen would believe they had cause to lament that their country had indeed fallen upon evil days. But evidently it is perceived that in these times the complete equalization of the franchise is unavoidable.

COOLIDGE NOT TO BLAME.

Senator Borah's admission that the enforcement of the prohibition law is in a bad way is brought to mind by the indirect confession of discouragement in the proceedings of the recent Methodist Church conference at Troy, N. Y. This took the form of a report complaining that President Coolidge is not zealous or courageous enough and does not display the devotion to be expected of a man of his upbringing. And yet "one Roosevelt word from him," said the report, "would do more to strengthen enforcement than the party angels made by a thousand officers." It seems that after exciting debate the conference decided not to adopt this part of the report, but no doubt it represents a widespread feeling in certain church bodies as well as in the Anti-Saloon League. The ordinary processes of law including such disappointing results, former optimists now want "one Roosevelt word" of might and magic.

If arrests, prosecutions and punishments fail to check violations, the fiat of a Roosevelt or a Mussolini is not likely to do so. The problem confronted is to force something like half the people to depart from lifelong custom, and words will hardly succeed where punishment fails. The unprejudiced will fail to see that Mr. Coolidge has been lacking in either words or deeds. Certainly the record tends to show that he has done all he could. He inaugurated what has appeared to be the most energetic effort to enforce the prohibition law witnessed up to the present time. Small wonder that the results do not satisfy the overseeing lobbies, but reflection should convince them that the trouble is in the enormously difficult situation itself.

PREVENTING ATTACKS OF EPILEPSY.

I have spoken before about the relationship that seems to exist between the intestine and epilepsy.

I spoke of one physician who had been able to keep a patient free from these epileptic attacks for a period of fifteen months, by the simple method of washing out his stomach twice weekly.

Also that one hospital reported the "cure" of 55 cases by the surgical removal of a portion of the large intestine. The subsequent history was that many of these cases, after months or years, began to have attacks again.

From London comes a report of some severe cases that were cured by the removal of a part of intestine, always including the appendix. But the operations were performed less than two years ago.

However one of the points learned from these cases is that the majority showed a "dropping" of the intestine.

What does this mean?

That at the lowest hanging portion of a loop of intestine there is likely to be almost a stoppage of the movement of the intestinal contents.

This is called stasis.

Now although epilepsy is a brain ailment, some one has well said that stasis, constipation, is the match that starts the fire and brings on the attacks.

No one has yet been able to tell the exact cause of epilepsy, and no cure has as yet been discovered although certain drugs do lessen the number and severity of the attacks.

However when we remember that operations which shorten the length of the large intestine (which is the reservoir of the waste matter of the body), have had a beneficial effect in nearly every case for a time at least, it is certainly worth thinking about.

What is the suggestion?

That wearing an abdominal belt which would help to hold the intestines up in position, together with abdominal exercises such as bending and twisting, should prevent the dropping of the intestine, with the stasis or stoppage at lowest hanging portion of the loop.

Vermont Will Celebrate Birth

D. A. R. to Erect Tablet on Spot Where Vermonters Rallied to Maintain Rights Which Resulted in State Independence.

Bennington, Vt., April 18 (AP).—President Coolidge's native state, once claimed in large part by New York, is to celebrate the anniversary of the day it defied its powerful neighbor and embarked on a career of its own.

Bennington Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will mark the spot where on October 19, 1769, Vermont colonists faced an Albany sheriff and his posse to resist ejection from the homes they had acquired by grants from New Hampshire.

Often referred to as the scene of Vermont's birth, the plot in the northwestern part of this township was then the site of a log cabin owned by James Breckenridge. Because of its location the farm was chosen by New York officials as the scene of a test case designed to determine title to the lands.

The controversy between the Vermont settlers and the New York authorities had been in progress for some time. New York claimed jurisdiction over all territory between the Connecticut river and Lake Champlain, while the colonists insisted that they had legally acquired their property by virtue of the grants from Governor Wentworth of New Hampshire.

Surveyors Driven Away.

A suit to eject Breckenridge was instituted by New York and commissioners were named to divide the land among claimants living in that state. A party of surveyors, sent to chart out the disputed acres, was driven off by Breckenridge and his neighbors.

When the report of this incident reached Albany, Sheriff Ten Eyck was ordered to eject the Vermonters by force. Mustering a posse of 300 men, including the mayor of Albany, several aldermen and a corps of attorneys, he journeyed to Bennington. It took two days to make the trip and during that time the colonists had recruited their forces.

The Breckenridge family was hurried to the homes of friends in what is now Old Bennington. The cabin was converted into an impromptu blockhouse and nineteen armed men volunteered to defend it against the Albanians. Two bands of more than a hundred men each were posted in the woods on each side of the road to await the display of the red flag that was to be the signal for succor.

When the New York posse came up Robert Yates, New York attorney, made a lengthy argument for the claims of his clients, but the only response was groans and cat calls from those inside the dwelling. Ten Eyck, seizing an axe and demanding entrance, was warned by the defenders that if he attacked the door he would forfeit his life. The Vermonters in the woods then began to show themselves and the sheriff, realizing that his demands would not be met, rallied his little army and departed for Albany.

Success in their first concerted resistance to New York marked the beginning of organized government in Vermont and led to the creation of the Council of Safety and the military regiment under Ethan Allen, which gained fame in the Revolution as the Green Mountain Boys.

The proposed marker will be placed on the site of the Breckenridge cabin.

CATTLE JUDGES NAMED FOR SPRINGFIELD SHOW.

Springfield, Mass., April 18.—Judges for the several cattle classes at the forthcoming 11th annual Eastern States Exposition at Springfield from September 18 to 24 inclusive, have been announced by the Exposition management and the Exposition livestock committee also announces the inclusion this year for the first time since 1917 of classes for Brown Swiss cattle.

Addition of the Brown Swiss classifications rounds out what is considered among breeders and exhibitors as the leading livestock show of the east, and also gives the Brown Swiss cattle breeders a much needed eastern show ring in which to present and judge their stock. The Eastern States Exposition cattle division this year will include Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys, Ayrshires and Brown Swiss in the dairy breeds; Devons and Milking Shorthorns in the dual purpose sections and Beef Shorthorns, Herefords and Aberdeen Angus in the beef breeds. There will also be Boys' and Girls' Baby Beef Club steers, a Boys' and Girls' Dairy Calf Club camp, and in fact, a complete junior livestock show, as well as uniform classes for draft horses which will include Percherons, Belgians, Clydesdales and draft horses in harness.

Invitations to judge the 1927 show rings were extended by the Exposition management some time ago, and the acceptances assure that every livestock ring at the September fall show will be passed upon by a nationally recognized expert. Classes and those who will judge the breeds are as follows: Holsteins, W. S. Morcrip, Lake Elmo, Minn.; Jerseys, G. C. White, Storrs, Conn.; Guernseys, John Clark, Huntington, L. I.; Ayrshires, Lewis Reitz, Waukesha, Wis.; Brown Swiss, John C. McNutt, Durham, N. H.; Devons, W. H. Pew, Pine Plains, N. Y.; Milking Shorthorns, W. Arthur Simpson, Lyndonville, Vt.; Beef Shorthorns, W. H. Pew; Herefords, J. W. Van Natta, Lafayette, Ind.; Aberdeen Angus, E. A. Trowbridge, Columbia, Mo.; Boys' and Girls' Club Steers, Peter Mc-Lennie, State College, Pa.; and draft horses, E. A. Trowbridge and W. H. Pew.

Roaming Ramsey Tells of Travels

Things Seen in South America by Kingston Man on His Way to Visit South Africa.

In a letter to the Kingston Rotary Club, Charles Ramsey of this city, who is now in South Africa, or further away, tells of his visit to South America as follows:

On Board, M. V. Asturious.
Feb. 17.

Our stay at Buenos Aires was most delightful although the heat was excessive. We arrived about noon and motored to the Paddock Restaurant where we had lunch, after which we were invited to watch the races. The city, which is a very fine one, is world renowned for its magnificent buildings, (both public and private), its beautiful avenues, and its seventy-two parks, containing many artistic statues. The main thoroughfares are modelled after those in Paris. Electric trains, busses, subways and trolleys are excellent. One thing of interest to New Yorkers, is the fact that there are no strap hangers in Buenos Aires. When a car is full the sign, "Complete" is hung out and one must wait for the next one.

Buenos Aires at night is most interesting. The Avenida de Mayo is lighted like Broadway, only the signs are in red and blue lights. Along both sides of the streets are cafes where the people sit, drink, and watch the procession. While there we ate at the Paris Hotel. Not knowing it I ordered the most expensive dish on the menu. Hubby's bank roll suffered a loss of twenty dollars, but that all goes in the game.

Speaking of the high prices, makes me think of the experience we had with our laundry. The charges seemed exorbitant. We paid sixteen cents for each handkerchief, sixty-two cents for each shirt and fifteen cents for each soft collar. Then to make matters worse we never received the handkerchiefs.

Our stay at Montevideo was a short but pleasant one. One building visited was the Hall of Congress, an edifice built of white marble. The inside, built of all kinds of exquisite marble, contained wonderful mosaics and paintings. Around the Senate chamber were a number of large bells. Upon inquiring their use we were informed that when the noise becomes too great these bells are rung and order is soon restored.

Our drive along the beach was very enjoyable even though our driver was a speed artist. It gave us a thrill to speed along the hard sand at eighty miles an hour. The bath houses were peculiar. It seems each one brings his own (usually a small tent) and pitches it anywhere he chooses.

Yesterday we had a most exciting day. We arose at seven and hurried on deck. Everyone was in a fever of excitement for we were approaching Tristan de Cuhna also known as the Lonely Island. This island situated about half way between Capetown and Buenos Aires, is inhabited by the descendants of a few Portuguese who were shipwrecked nearby. The original settlers asked for wives and some St. Helena women were sent out. Due to this fact, there are many colors prevalent. The settlers live by following the Golden Rule. Can you picture a place where there are no laws, no doctors, no dentists, no cars, no electricity;—in fact nothing but houses, cattle and people? This island now belongs to England. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were sent out as missionaries and stayed three years during which time they established schools and churches. Unfortunately upon their arrival in England Mr. Rogers died. Two missionaries, whom we will meet in Durban, will arrive in a short time.

Upon arrival a large raft was lowered and towed to shore by the natives. It contained hundreds of articles, including smokes, shoes, foodstuffs, one hundred blankets, etc.

About ten natives (there are 150 in all) came on board and were besieged with questions. They told us they sometimes waited three years to see a boat. They haven't had a smoke in two years. They hadn't had flour in three years. When asked why they didn't raise flour they said there were so many rats that the crops were eaten as soon as they appeared above ground. Potatoes are the only crop raised. When the natives left for shore they had about all they wanted. Wouldn't we have liked to have been there when they opened their bundles?

Greetings from South Africa, where this is mailed, to the boys.

CHAS. RAMSAY.

Warns Against Tent Caterpillars

Dr. E. P. Felt, state entomologist, of the State Museum at Albany, has issued a warning that the prospects are excellent for large numbers of tent caterpillars upon wild cherry and unsprayed apple trees in the Hudson valley.

He says:

"Many of the eggs have already hatched in the southern part of the state, and in the Albany area the small black caterpillars will soon be clustering upon the cylindrical, brown egg belts less than an inch long and on the smaller twigs. Numerous egg clusters, 10 to 15 on fair-sized clumps of wild cherry or upon a small apple tree are an almost certain indication of stripping and thousands of hideous, crawling caterpillars in late May and June. It is very easy to see the glistening, white webs of those pests in the forks of the trees and when these are only an inch or two in length they may be readily removed from the small trees, the tiny caterpillars crushed and thus extensive stripping may be prevented.

"The 'tent worms' are no menace in sprayed orchards, since ordinary applications of poison are a specific for those pests. They are a nuisance on roadside trees and greatly injure unsprayed apple trees. In neither case does the work of these pests add much to the beauty in an otherwise very pleasant landscape. In many cases it may be entirely feasible to destroy the nests and their contents on door-yard trees and in other places where hordes of caterpillars are more than ordinarily offensive."

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Yellow is Reported As a Coming Evening Color and the Most Fashionable Sports Shade at the Riviera.

New York.—Yellow was given as the leading color of the Riviera during the smart season, but Palm Beach, ordinarily partial to the golden tones of her oranges and sunshine, wore less yellow than usual. Pink, if one includes peach and all the various shades with a pink cast, prevailed, but the vivid yellows reported from Cannes were not worn in Florida to anything like the usual extent. One color combination crept into the many color schemes noted here, late in the season, a combination that made one think of sunsets.

Smart folk have established the practice of wearing a yellow boutonniere on a pink dress or topping such a dress with a natural Leghorn matched to yellowish stockings.

The wide-brimmed Leghorn hat was another late entry. It followed the success of the wide-brimmed Milan and the hair hat, and was a notable success among the younger and exceedingly smart fraternity.

It has been predicted for some time that yellow would return as the color par excellence for evening. One does see enough yellow on both sides of the Atlantic and along the Mediterranean to justify this belief. There are also greenish yellows that have smart sponsorship.

If one includes gold in the list of yellows worn, then this color ranks very high indeed in point of number, for gold dust seems to have been sprinkled in everybody's eyes, and to have blinded them to everything that is not gold or does not glitter. Gold dust has been liberally sprinkled on a taffeta that is used by some of the couture for evening dresses and gold threads are numerous in woolens, as well as silks.

Yoke Adds Style to Child's Coat

Handsome New Creation for Little Misses—Chic Spring Model.

A yoke invariably adds a becoming touch to a small girl's clothes. In the accompanying drawing, from the Woman's Home Companion, the artist has designed a very unusual one which forms a deep point in the front and curves pleasantly across the back. The slanted line of the yoke and revers in the front carry the eye down to the fat pearl button. Even the patch pockets slant.

The coat as it is illustrated is made of a light shade of flannel lined with a handkerchief linen that matches the flannel in color. It is intended to be worn with a frock of the same light green. The linen lining may be a shade darker or a shade lighter than the coat if preferred. In that case of course the frock should match the lining. When linen is used in this way it must be dampened, dried and pressed before it is put into the coat in order to be thoroughly serviceable and stand tubbing or cleaning.

For a heavier coat homespun is suggested lined with flannel or a rough worsted with perhaps a jersey lining. Homespuns come in pretty pastel shades which are easily matched in other materials. A jersey frock and a jersey lining of the same color make a smart costume for school or play.

The possibilities for material and color combinations in a design of this kind are manifold. For instance there are prim all-over designs in printed silks that seem especially suited for little girls. They make good-looking frocks and linings for cheviot, serge, kasha or flannel coats. Probably the most striking color arrangement as well as the most satisfactory for general wear is dark or navy blue for the coat with a gay printed lining. There are quaint cotton prints of this character that are specially appropriate for these small coats and frocks. Cotton prints must be shrunk thoroughly before they are cut.

If he wears a No. 17 collar, red sleeve supporters and a piece of adhesive tape on his thumb, his bowling average for the season will be around 197.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

One of the ruts in the household which is wearing deeper and deeper is the monotony in menu making. The same old thing in the same old way is repeated until appetite and interest in food are gone.

The housekeeper in most homes is mother, cook, nurse, seamstress and general manager; this is a man-sized job and only when she treats it as a business and brings system into its management, does she make a success, providing her health and strength hold out. Try keeping a tabulated list of the dishes liked by the family, adding to them in various ways, to avoid repetition.

Take rice for example, make a list of ten or more ways of serving rice as a main dish, as vegetable, as a dessert, or in combination with other foods. Prepare these dishes in turn and it will not be necessary to serve them often.

When whole wheat right from the granary can be purchased there is no breakfast food equal to it. If there are members of the family who desire to have it ground that can be done in an ordinary coffee mill. When serving it whole it is best to soak it over night, then cook slowly on the back of the range all day. Cook enough to last for several days and serve it with top milk. This is the best possible food for children; give it to them for their supper. As it is a food that must be chewed, it is especially good for the teeth.

Remember to wipe the tops of milk bottles before opening them. Hands that deliver milk are often far from clean.

Lace curtains which seem hopeless may be mended by using a piece of net or lace to match and ironing it over the hole. Trim off the edges and the mended place will not be noticed.

When making pastry handle with as little moisture as possible.

Use a tray for removing dishes from the table, also use it when carrying dishes to set the table—it saves many steps.

On Display in Our Big Basement

Albany, April 18.—A remarkable record in reforesting will be made in Otsego county this year.

A million young trees have been shipped from the Conservation Department's Saratoga nursery for planting in county, city and private forestry projects. This year's planting will equal the combined planting of the preceding three years and includes about half as many trees as have been planted since 1903, when the reforesting movement began.

Some of the early plantations made in the county, including those in the Otsego City forest and on the Clark estate at Cooperstown, are among the best in the state and served to draw attention to the fact that reforestation offered an opportunity to make profitable use of land that is not being used for agricultural purposes.

During the past five years there has been a very marked increase in reforesting throughout the county. In 1922, there were planted in the county 76,810 trees. In 1923, 152,400 trees were planted; in 1924, 226,400; in 1925, 266,700 and in 1926, 567,400. This year's orders already are nearly double last year's total planting with orders still coming in.

The Otsego county board of supervisors acting on the report of its forestry committee consisting of George L. Roches of Oneonta, William Dickson of Candia and John W. Chase of Maryland will spend $5,000 a year for the next ten years in planting a county forest. There are 50,000 acres or more of land in the county that is idle and non-productive that could be greatly increased in value if used for growing forests and it is planned to so use it as some of the other plantations in the county already demonstrate the practical benefits of planted forests.

The young trees cost $2 a thousand for two-year-old seedlings, or $4 a thousand for three-year-old transplants, and the cost of planting 1,000 trees—or 10 acres—averages about $10, so that the cost is very small compared to the benefits that will result from putting idle land under forest cover.

BOY POLICEMAN

"Do you want to see something today I don't believe you're ever seen before?" one of the boys in school asked Douglas.

And you can guess the answer Douglas gave.

"I'm going to take you to see the Juvenile Police—young policemen, in other words.

"They help the big policemen in their work and they do a great deal to keep order."

Douglas was much excited, and when he reached the place where the boy said they were going to see some of the Juvenile Police he shouted aloud with joy at seeing really young boys keeping order

"I had no idea they were so young," said Douglas.

"I suppose you thought I meant young men, didn't you?" the boy inquired.

"Yes, I guess I did," Douglas replied. "But they are really and truly boys," he added.

Douglas was having a very fine time watching them, for it was their best day to be watched. They had seen quite a few boys who needed their attention and their discipline!

"Do You Want to See Something?"

Some they reported to the grown-up policeman and others they warned. The warnings were heeded, for the Juvenile Police had power and authority, Douglas was told.

"And can they really say what is to happen to bad children?" asked Douglas.

"Indeed they can," the boy told him. "There is this group of them in this section of the city, and they are the greatest help in the world to the big policemen."

"The children have to obey them, too," said Douglas, for he had been watching one boy-policeman insisting that order be kept among a crowd of boys who were quite wild.

As he listened to the duties and the tasks of the Juvenile Police he said:

"It's no kind of a play job, is it?"

"I should say it wasn't."

And, late that afternoon, Uncle Colm took the children ice skating on the artificial ice of which they had heard, but not as yet tried.

"So they can skate, regardless of weather in the city," Douglas said that evening, laughing.

American Home Health Standards

General Federation of Women's Clubs to Discuss Theme at Biennial Council Meeting—Want Home Makers to Talk About Subject.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—The American home and its health standards will be the theme of the program at the Biennial Council meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Grand Rapids, Michigan, May 30 to June 4.

Forty-eight states, the District of Columbia and Alaska, will be represented at the meeting with a possible delegate body of 5,000 club women.

"Setting thousands of home makers to talking about health standards is equal to a definite statement that they will be improved," says Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the General Federation, "but that is not the only thing we are going to talk about. The subject will be uppermost in the minds during a number of sessions but the greater portion of the four days will be devoted to an intense study of the machinery of the General Federation, an organization embracing millions of women in the United States, functioning in thousands of women's clubs.

"Health standards which affect the home will be made to apply to the community; the goal therefore of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is to strengthen the whole nation by beginning with the individual," continued Mrs. Sherman.

The Grand Rapids local organization in charge of the entertainment of the many visitors is composed of nearly a thousand Michigan women. Mrs. Dorian M. Russell is chairman. Various men's organizations of the city are associating themselves with the committee on entertainment and are actively planning to be of service in any capacity required.

High Falls, April 18.—Everyone who attended the meeting of the High Falls Parent-Teacher Association on April 13 will never again believe 13 to be unlucky, for it was a most enjoyable and worth-while afternoon. There was the regular business meeting and one of the accomplishments of the P.-T. A. during the month was to buy a new Perfection oil stove for the school to be used in food preparation lessons. After the business meeting Mr. Brandt, who kindly volunteered to help out with the program, gave several violin solos. He was accompanied most ably by Mrs. Ross. His selections were beautifully rendered. The community is very fortunate in having Mr. Brandt join it, as he teaches the violin. Mrs. Ashton Hart also gave a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Roy Ransom. Mrs. Harry Simmons, chairman of the district spoke. She brought to the members attention just what Parent-Teacher Associations stood for, the advantages the national congress is offering and the goal all are striving for. Refreshments were served, consisting of several kinds of cake, ice cream and coffee. At the meeting on May 11 Miss Margaret O'Connor, of the state department of health, will speak. There will also be another musical program.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Smith and daughter, Marjorie, of East Meredith were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Yeaple the week end.

Dairymen Oppose Extending Market

Dairymen Call Mass Meeting to Act On Western Menace Aroused by League's Plea That Eastern Farmers Have Opportunity to Meet Demands of Metropolitan Market.

Watertown, N. Y., April 18.—A movement among dairy farmers to protect their New York city market from threatened invasion that promises to eclipse the protective measures taken a year ago has started among dairymen of Jefferson, St. Lawrence, Oswego and Lewis counties.

Alarmed by consideration being given by the New York city board of health to a proposal to widen the milk supplying territory, these northern farmers have called a mass meeting to be held in Watertown, N. Y., Saturday, April 23. This decision was reached in Watertown April 13 at a meeting of the North Counties Committee, which grew out of the farmers' mass meeting held at Watertown January 9, 1926.

A communication recently submitted to the New York Health Department by G. W. Slocum, president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., urging that the eastern producers be given an opportunity to meet the demands of the metropolitan market revealed to the northern farmers that serious consideration is being given the extension proposal. When this fact became public Frank B. Taylor of Jefferson county, chairman of the northern committee, called his committee together and it decided that the situation is sufficiently serious to merit the consideration of all farmers of the northern section.

The committee has requested Mr. Slocum, as president of the Dairymen's League, to speak at the mass meeting. Other speakers invited include C. Fred Boshart, president of the Sheffield Producers Association; Peter G. Ten Eyck, of Albany, chairman of the Producers' Program Committee on Unified Organization, and Truman Cole of Little Falls, president of the Unity Dairymen's Cooperative Association, Inc.

Purpose of the meeting is to evolve some plan of protecting the New York market from western invasion. Leaders in the northern movement assert that sufficient milk can be produced in the present milk shed to meet the metropolitan needs if a price sufficient to make autumn and winter production profitable can be secured. Announcement now of a cent a quart increase to be received next fall, they say, will result in farmers so regulating their dairy operations that there will be plenty of milk without any necessity of going west.

The northern men decided to invite the business men of their territory into the mass meeting that they may become familiar with the problems confronting the dairy industry, and the destruction that looms unless there is prompt action to save it from the damage that would accrue through loss of the principal fluid milk market of the east.

Warns of Fire Danger in Forests

Extreme Carelessness on Part of Public Results in All District Forest Rangers Being Ordered to Take Extra Precautions.

Albany, April 18.—An unusually large number of grass and brush fires that in a number of instances threatened to become serious forest fires mark the opening of the spring fire season and the conservation department's fire protection field forces have been ordered to take special precautions for the protection of the woods.

The following telegram has been sent to all of the department's district forest rangers by William G. Howard, superintendent of state forests

"Weather forecast indicates continued drought accompanied by high winds

"Warn every ranger of fire danger and instruct them to grant no more burning permits and to cancel those already granted except where there is snow

"Put to work summer rangers and observers wherever necessary."

Public Is Careless.

Reports over the past week end received in the office of the conservation department show extreme carelessness on the part of the public regarding care of fires, matches, tobacco etc

Few realize the dangerous situation resulting from dry, dead vegetation on the ground at this season As soon as the snow has melted the direct action of the sun, aided by drying winds, soon causes the accumulation of leaves, grass and similar litter to form a dry mass, readily ignited and most difficult to control when once on fire.

To the casual motorist these fires appear to be but the removal of rubbish from along the highway. As a matter of fact they are the most dangerous sort of fire with which the conservation department has to contend. Also they are usually caused by gross carelessness on the part of the public.

Fire Travels Fast.

A match thrown from an automobile will cause a fire in this dry material, which fanned by the wind may travel as much as seven miles in an hour, threatening all buildings, material and growth in its area.

The conservation department, under the conservation law, is charged with extinguishing fires burning in certain forested areas of this state. This department requests the cooperation of the general public, particularly those using the highways, at this critical period, that great loss of property by these fires be reduced. Grass fires travel rapidly and therefore cover large areas before being extinguished, cause excessive property damage and are absolutely preventable if the public will follow reasonable rules.

Matches and burning tobacco should not be thrown from a car.

Camp fires should not be started before all inflammable material is removed from around the location of the fire.

Fires should not be left unquenched

Present weather conditions have caused a fire danger over the entire area east and south of the Adirondack Mountains.

Indians Burned Coal

Dr. Walter Hough gives the Pueblo Indians credit for the first use of coal for fuel. They dug it out of surface veins in Arizona, and with it heated their kilns for firing pottery. There seems to be no evidence, however, that its fuel value was put to any other use, such as cooking or warming dwellings, until centuries later when civilized man discovered its possibilities.

Tires of us!

How can we make this sweeping promise? Well, just consider the facts:

FACT 1—Written reports have been secured from over 1500 motorists picked entirely at random except that all were testing various makes of tires opposite Michelins. 84% said they secured more mileage from their Michelins than from the other tires they were using.

FACT 2—In Detroit, the home of the automobile, in a vote taken among all of the 984 tire dealers, more dealers voted for Michelin as the best tire than for any other make.

FACT 3—During the past three years Michelin sales have grown three times as fast as the tire industry as a whole. Something more than words did that.

FACT 4—Records covering over a million miles show that, on an average, Michelins give 36% more mileage than other tires.

FACT 5—Back in 1895 Michelin was the world's first pneumatic auto tire. Today Michelin is still first, and over 25,000 tire builders are kept busy trying to supply the great world-wide demand for Michelins.

But in addition to quality there's another factor—Price. We sell Michelins at the price of standard tires. Think of that. Then ask yourself: "Don't I owe it to myself to give these fellows a chance?"

DESERVES NAME OF HERO OF MEDICINE

Everlasting Fame Accorded Armenian Physician.

An Armenian immigrant, who became an 'merican doctor and died 12 years later from the effects of X-ray burns, has been selected as "the most picturesque hero of American medicine" by Dr. Wilmer Krusen, head of the Philadelphia department of public health.

Doctor Krusen declares, in an article in the American Magazine, that the unsung heroes of scientific medicine have done as much as the soldiers and statesmen to make the world safe for democracy, and he proves his case by examples of medical martyrs in the conquest of yellow fever, spotted fever, typhus, and in the study of the X-ray.

"Every big city can lay claim to one or more of these heroes of the X-ray," says Doctor Krusen. "The story of Dr. Mihran Kassabian is only typical of what many others went through."

Kassabian was born in Turkey, and as a boy was surrounded by the horrors of massacre. He came to America and studied medicine, receiving his degree just in time to enlist in the army medical corps for the Spanish war. In 1903, again a civilian, he became director of the Philadelphia X-ray laboratory.

The X-rays, used upon a patient for diagnosis, are harmless. The patient is exposed only a brief time. But the X-ray specialist, exposed day after day, plays with almost certain death unless he has means of protection.

Kassabian and the other pioneers did their work with bare hands. One day Kassabian detected a small ulcer on one hand. Other ulcers soon appeared, until both hands and wrists were covered with ugly spots from which came the most excruciating pain. Then Kassabian knew that the wonderful rays by which he had saved many lives were literally eating him away.

He refused to quit work. While his life was being eaten away, he rose to eminence. He studied, wrote, and went back again and again to his machine to let it do its worst on him, seeking constantly for the secret which would protect future experts from the fate which overhung him. Famous medical societies honored him. He was a doomed man; but one still with his boots on. Death, with which he raced for six years, overtook him in 1910.

Lead, the metal which the X-rays cannot penetrate, protects the specialist of today. He is not asked to endure what Kassabian, and many others, went through, "They were the trail blazers," says Doctor Krusen.

Did you hear about the Gold-Dust Twins? Lux against them.

Historic Orders Gathered

A collection of 10,000 original military and civil orders and proclamations issued by Napoleon, the French crown and revolutionary authorities in the latter Eighteenth and beginning the Nineteenth centuries has been acquired by the Alsace-Lorraine institute of the University of Frankfort. The collection in part was purchased by anonymous persons from the estate of the late Prof. Rudolph Reuss of Sorbonne university, Paris, and presented to the Frankfort institute. It is one of the most valuable collections of its kind in the world, being surpassed only by that in the National library in Paris. Most of the orders were printed in French and German, since they were intended for posting in Alsace-Lorraine.

Smart Dog

Every afternoon about two o'clock Brownie, a handsome dog, can be seen trotting around to the circulation room of the Quincy Patriot-Ledger. He never varies the time of his arrival by more than a few minutes. After the boys get their papers he often accompanies them on routes if it is pleasant, but stormy days he just goes out to the corner and sees them off and then returns to the office. How does the dog know when it is two o'clock, and why does he never show up on Sundays? He must figure this out in a way animals have and that cannot be accounted for by any human standard of reasoning.—Quincy Patriot Ledger.

Vodka-Stuffed

Mexican Consul Lubbert said at a dinner in San Antonio:

"It is a mistake to think that Mexico is going in for Bolshevism. We Mexicans would never tolerate Bolshevism. It is most antipathetic to us. It is probably antipathetic to the Russians themselves, only they are so stupefied with vodka, you know.

"It reminds me of a little Russian boy who looked up from a travel book and said:

"'Father, is it true that gorillas can't endure our climate?'

"'Gorillas, my son,' the father answered, 'endure our climate perfectly, only they have to be stuffed first.'"—Exchange.

Making Changes At Interstate Park

Recreational Services In Palisades Section to Be Enlarged—New Hudson River Bridge Makes Some Changes Necessary—Scenic Route Improved.

Several changes, improvements and additions to the recreational services in the Palisades section of the Palisades Interstate Park, across the Hudson from northern Manhattan, the Borough of the Bronx and southern Westchester county, are now under way by the park commission, to be ready for the intensive summer use which this readily accessible preserve receives from the people of the New York city and northern New Jersey metropolitan district.

One of the changes is made necessary by the construction work on the New Jersey pier of the new Hudson river bridge. It will require the temporary closing of the bathhouse at Hazard's Beach, and of the dock used by the ferry from 155th street, Manhattan, and the construction of a temporary bathhouse and ferry landing at Carpenter's Point a little to the north. Work on the Henry Hudson Drive at this point on the Palisades will also be suspended, but that part of the drive from the Englewood landing of the Dyckman street ferry will be open to motor traffic, with a parking space at Carpenter's Point. The beach just south of Hazard's Beach, which is much used by New Jersey people, will be kept open for bathers.

Bridge Approach Through Tunnel.

The New Jersey approach of the great new bridge will touch the front of the Palisades at a point 75 feet below the brink and will penetrate the cliffs through a short tunnel. There will be no break in the cliffs, the tunnel opening having been adopted so as not to mar the top of the Palisades. This tunnel will be only about 75 feet long and the rest of the approach, to Hudson Terrace, will be through an open cut rising to the level of the top of the Palisades at that point.

The extension of the Henry Hudson Drive, beyond the top of the Palisades, at Alpine, has been practically completed, around the front of the highest part of the cliffs, past Indian Head, and thence follows about the line of the old road, with some straightening of curves, to Palisades Village and on to Sparkill. This makes a new scenic route up the west side of the Hudson to Bear Mountain, and straightens out the angle formerly pursued, from Alpine to the western base of the Palisades, and thence north along their foot.

Ferry Equipment Improved.

Another change will be the construction of a large playground for children, at the foot of the cliffs just north of the Alpine landing of the ferry from Yonkers. The company operating this ferry has improved its equipment so that its boats will now carry forty-eight cars each trip. The service is every fifteen minutes. The Duyckman Street-Englewood ferry equipment has also been improved, with the addition of a new boat, named for George W. Perkins, for twenty years chairman of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission, and the leader in the movement for the preservation of the Palisades and the extension of the Interstate Park northward to Hook Mountain and Bear Mountain.

Another improvement to be undertaken this season will be the construction of a second large basin for motor boats, south of the present basin at the Englewood Landing, near Carpenter's Point, and with a capacity for 250 small craft, twice that of the present shelter.

The knotholers of today do not remember the time when two rival towns closed up when their ball teams met, and everybody attended the game, which was not played in an inclosure, and to which no admission was charged, and the players of which received no compensation, and at the conclusion of which, with the score standing at, say, 60 to 54, the spectators were in a frame of mind for war.

A St. Paul man got so mad at a butcher that he wrote a letter to the paper. His favorite part of the turkey, he said, was the liver, and when the bird was delivered nary a liver could he find, the butcher having sold it again. Obviously this dealer is no descendant of the old-timers who used to give the children a hunk of "boloney" when dad paid his butcher's bill.

Vice President Seldom Eats Home

Nearly Every Night During Social Season, General and Mrs. Dawes Are Compelled to Accept Dinner Invitations.

Washington, April 18.—The vice presidency may have draw-backs, but plenty of free meals go with the job.

In fact, so many dinner invitations were received during the last winter social season that Vice President and Mrs. Dawes were unable to accept them all. Those they did not decline took them away from home nearly every night, week after week.

It has always been so with the vice presidency. One of the White House social rules, sometimes disregarded as in the case of the Hardings, is that the president and his wife rarely, if ever, dine elsewhere, except for the series of dinners given annually in their honor by members of the cabinet and a few others high in government life.

But the vice president and his wife have no such restraint, and dinners galore are arranged in their honor. February, just before Lent, is a particularly busy season.

On several occasions, not to be absent at night sessions of the senate, Dawes excused himself in the midst of a dinner and hurried to the capitol to preside in evening clothes. Sometimes at a dinner he corralled one or two senators who also forsook society for their legislative duties.

Athough—and again social custom dictates—the vice president is under no obligation to reciprocate, except that annually he entertains in honor of the president a week after the cabinet dinner at the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Dawes gave two big dinners last spring. Those who had entertained them were invited, and there were a hundred or more guests at each function.

This year, however, after adjournment of congress the vice president and his wife went south for a vacation in Florida, Cuba and Panama, and there will be no such dinners.

What does the old timer do with the hours he used to spend making rings with the ends of his mustache?

This ought to be a good year in the lipstick industry, as it began with another denunciation of this form of art.

Easy to tell which are the Christian nations. They're the ones developing new poison gas horrors for the next war.

The old bus!

THE paint may be scraped off here and there and probably the mudguards bear the dents of careless parking or even more careless fellow parkers.

THE engine may miss now and then and shifting gears may not be the smooth easy matter it once was, but the old bus is still a good old friend.

IT has served you well. Down to the office; quick, pleasant shopping trips; cool, refreshing evening drives through the country; week-end journeys to see the folks back home, wonderful vacations—all this and more the old bus has given you.

YOU know all this of course, but did you ever stop to think how much the oft-discussed business of advertising has had to do with the fun you've had out of the old bus?

DIDN'T advertising tell you of many things that made your car run easier and more economically? Didn't advertising help you plan your pleasure trips?

AND when you are through with the old bus, won't advertising help you dispose of it advantageously and enable you to select the new one more intelligently?

AND that's just the motor-car department of life.

ADVERTISING means quite a lot to you, doesn't it? Life would be full of detours without it.

Read the advertisements regularly and follow the straight road to satisfaction and economy.

If the prognosis works out all right, the day may not be far off when the ultra-violet ray will do all the work.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Daylight reception Sunday was fine, including the church service broadcast by WDBZ. Whether something in the church building was corrected or the new microphone deserves all the credit, WDBZ was doing perfect work Sunday morning and at a point six miles from the city hall, where Ye Listener did his daylight listening, the volume was ample and the tone clear.

One thing about this six miles from home listening was that WBZ at Springfield was a perfect daylight station, as loud as WJZ, which, by the way, seemed very weak. At home WBZ can barely be heard in daylight and always fades badly at night. Six miles away WBZ is a strong daylight station every day.

oow many fans have noticed the way WMCA has pepped up lately? Between interference and weakness of its own the station had become a third-rater. Suddenly, a few days ago, it came back with great strength, day and night. New tubes?

The Chinese mission service at WNCA is a scream. It consists mainly of singing and the reading of letters commending the station or asking for contributions. A week ago a boy asked for a goat and Sunday it was announced that he had the goat and that another youngster wanted an Airedale dog. One can scarcely wait a week to find out if the dog like the goat, has been forthcoming.

Western stations were weak or dead Sunday night. WCDB, WJIT, WKRC, WOK and WTAM were not heard at all until after 10 and then very faintly. There were no static noises; only just blanketing, of which even WJZ had spells. The Atwater Kent program was best from WGY, where the blooping was also most satanic.

Saturday night WJZ had a bad spell of panting and fat frying was continuous. The Beechnut program was interesting and also extremely good advertising and the Weekenders were fine. The west was weak and time signals from NAA were not easy to pick up.

Wednesday evening at 6:30 WDBZ will broadcast another Kingoilco program when the King Oilers will open another can of oil and pour forth vocal and orchestral melody for one hour. They are good and worth hearing.

Keep your battery connections clean. It is astonishing how soon they may become fouled, especially if you have not given them a vaseline bath after cleaning.

Incidentally it may be interesting to know that the observations in this column are of reception on a set equipped with B batteries that have run, under the severest strain, for 900 hours and tubes that are on the last lap to 2,000 hours. Care in regulating the power of a set will greatly prolong the life of batteries and tubes and improve reception. The way not to operate any set is to turn all the power on full blast and then wiggle the dial and bloop all over the lot. This set has a record of some 200 stations received.

B. W. S. Opened.

An ununusually large crowd attended the opening of the B. W. S. Hall at High Falls Sunday night. Maisenhelder's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing.

Pan-Ams Win Out in Eleventh

It took eleven innings to decide the winner of the contest staged at Block Park on Sunday afternoon between the Pan-Ams and the Rondout A. C. The oil representatives finally took the upper berth in the eleventh frame when Tomaskie landed on the first sack as Krom failed in making a perfect play. He took a trip to second when Spiegel, third baseman of the Rondout A. C., bagged a fly but threw the pill wildly in an effort to catch him off the bag. Fitzgerald then went to bat but fanned. Tierney was next with the stick and he drove a long one to center which enabled Tomaskie to do the rounds from second to home. Tierney tried to make third but on the same throw that was measured to give Tomaskie "the works" he was tagged out.

The Rondout A. C. endeavored to at least tie the score in their portion of the eleventh but failed. The bottom fell from their chance when Bill Leonard tried to steal second. Tomaskie made a perfect throw and the runner was put out. Two men fanned before Leonard went to bat and as the Rondouts failed on their last try the Pan-Ams with their manager, William McNally, left the field hoping that the success they attained in the opening game would continue throughout the season.

The pitchers of the rival teams staged a wonderful duel. Carpenter of the Pan-Ams allowed but four or five hits and nineteen times the Rondout A. C. men found that he manipulated the pill in an adverse manner for them. Best of the Rondout A. C. fanned thirteen of the oil men and allowed but seven or eight hits.

So effective was the work of the moundsmen of the two nines that the game reached the seventh inning before a run was scored. This was accomplished by Joe Hoffman, receiver for the Rondout A. C. Tomaskie, who did the catching for the Pan-Ams put his team in the lead by driving a homer with one man on the sacks. The Rondouts then equaled the two runs possessed by the oil men when Crispell and Krom assisted in the eighth. The score then stood even until the eleventh frame, when Tomaskie scored the deciding run.

Score by innings:

Kingston Volley Team Wins Again

The Kingston "Y" volley ball team has hung up its togs until next season after completing a triumph over the South Manchester players. The local players traveled to the Connnecticut town last Saturday and defeated the representatives of the "Y" there four out of five games.

The men from the Kingston organization got in Manchester rathertardy for the contests but once they took the floor they found the South Manchester exponents of volley ball of just the calibre against whom they could put up a stiff competition. The first contest was taken by Kingston 15 to 6. The second game was more closely fought and the terminating point left a score of 15 to 13, with the local men on the favorable end. Then Kingston got reckless and let the South Manchester men slip in a victory during the third contest. This frame ended 15 to 7. The last two games were bagged by Kingston and they had no difficulty in taking them. The scores were 15-8 and 15-5.

It is expected that next year the players from the local "Y" will reach supremacy in the field. They played good volley ball this season and with a good record and added enthusiasm the offing presents a favorable aspect for the season to come.

WEST VIRGINIA ELEVEN WILL ABANDON SHIFT

Morgantown, W. Va., April 18 (AP).—West Virginia University's famous football shift has been abandoned.

Athletic officials said that because "the penalties imposed upon the mountaineers last fall overbalanced the benefits derived" from the shift, it would not be employed this fall. The play has been used since 1921.

"Just what line formation will be used, Coach Everett Rodgers has not definitely decided," the announcement said.

Chicago's Racing Season.

Chicago, April 18 (AP)—Members of the license committee of the new Illinois Turf Association start examination of jockeys and trainers today in preparation for the opening of Chicago's 1927 racing season Thursday, at Aurora. A 35-day meeting will be held there. More than 1,400 horses are quartered at the tracks, which has been rebuilt into a full mile oval.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Major league fans accustomed to leaving the ball parks early to avoid the rush are getting out of the habit this year because of the way the teams are playing their spectacular baseball in the final innings.

Good examples of the whirlwind finish by which a game is won—or its complexion changed entirely—in the eighth or ninth inning were seen in yesterday's games.

Apparently safe on the long end of a 5 to 3 count at the end of the eighth the Browns lost to the White Sox 12 to 5 as the visitors scored nine runs in the ninth.

The wallop of the finish was applied also by the Pirates who did most of their heavy hitting in the eighth to turn a defeat into an 8 to 3 victory over the Cubs.

Although the Giants had a day off from major league play, they too, showed the world a game is never over until the score book is closed, making just enough runs in the eighth to nose out the Providence Grays of the Eastern League, 6 to 5.

While they led all the way in beating Brooklyn, 7 to 2, the Braves also saved something for the end scoring four of their runs in the eighth.

Such a thing as a batting rally had no place in yesterday's battle between the Cardinals and Reds, which the world champions won, 2 to 1, behind the veteran Alexander. That was ding-dong, nip and tuck baseball with the hits comparatively few and far apart.

Games of quite another type were those at New York and Washington in which the Yanks and Athletics kept up their rapid hitting pace by beating the Red Sox and Senators, respectively, 14 to 2 and 13 to 3. The Yanks plastered the ball for 18 hits and the Mackmen banged out 16.

The day was a triumph for Detroit in more ways than one. The Tigers hit the Indians' ace, Uhle, for 14 hits in 7 innings and a 5 to 1 victory and incidentally succeeded in playing their first full game in six attempts this season. Four of the previous scheduled games were called off because of rain and the fifth was interrupted in the fifth inning.

Ulster County Fair To Get $3,104.60

Commissioner Berne A. Pyrke, of the Department of Agriculture and Markets, has announced that the county and town agricultural fair associations receiving state aid paid out $427,084.39 at the fairs held in 1926.

Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars have been appropriated by the state of New York to reimburse the societies for premiums paid for the promotion of agriculture and of domestic arts, for the promotion of education along agricultural lines, and for the promotion of the breeding of cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, horses and other domestic animals.

Twenty-two societies received the limit of $4,000 and the balance is divided in proportion to the amount paid in premiums by the society. In a few days the checks will be forwarded to the treasurers of the societies entitled to participate in this distribution.

The Ulster County Agricultural Society will receive $3,104.60 from this fund.

Miss Cornelia DuBois returned from her Florida trip April 1. She motored from Miama with her nephew, Philip E. DuBois and two of his friends. They had a wonderful trip. They saw the Natural Bridge of Virginia and visited Mercersburg Academy which Philip DuBois attended and saw the beautiful chapel. The main hall which was destroyed by fire last winter is being rebuilt. Most interesting of all places inspected was the Endless Cavern of New Market, Virginia, in the Shenandoah Valley. The cavern has been explored for five miles, the end has never been reached. The cavern was discovered in 1879. One day two boys and their dog were chasing a rabbit which disappeared under a boulder, the boulder was moved and the shaft leading to the cavern was found. The cavern was not opened until 1921. It is now lighted by electricity. It contains such wonders as the "Oriental Palace," "The Snowdrift," the "Palace of Fairies" and the "Diamond Lake." It is claimed that a picture cannot be secured that does justice to the exquisite forms and colorings. New Market was the scene of one of the battles of the Civil War. Mr. and Mrs. Abram E. Jansen also visited Endless Cavern while they were motoring north.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES AT FIRST DUTCH CHURCH

Easter morning in the First Dutch Church saw an audience of worshippers that filled to the doors the spacious ground floor of the church and necessitated the opening of the galleries to accommodate the overflow—an unusual thing except on special occasions. The pulpit was banked with lilies and pink hydrangeas, with a background of stalwart palms. Rows of potted plants, daffodils, roses and lilies graced the balconies, and added to the beautiful color scheme throughout.

The musical features of the day were soul-stirring. For weeks W. W. Fredenburgh and his faithful chorus choir, while rehearsing the Lenten cantatas which elicited such large audiences, kept in mind this final Easter service, determined that the music should be up to the highest standard attainable, and it was. For variety, in solos, duets, quartets and choruses it would be difficult to select a happier program, and, as to interpretation of the motifs and expressions of the sentiments as written by the great composers it may be doubted that the choir ever sang to better advantage. In prelude and interlude the new echo organ with its sweet chimes and melodious harp added to the effectiveness of the great organ. The opening anthem, "White Lilies of Our Lord," by Clarence Dickinson; Arthur Sullivan's, "The Lord is Risen," sung by Mrs. Doty; "An Easter Alleluia," by Gaines, sung by Mrs. Johnston and Mr. Finley, and the two carols, "Easter Day," by Rowley, and the traditional Norwegian carol, "This Glad Easter Day," with the added Easter hymns into the singing of which the large congregation entered heartily—all these presented a program of joy and praise that was most impressive.

In his Easter message, Dr. Boeve discussed the age-long question asked on the Easter day by the little company of women as they approached the spot where the Christ had been interred—"Who shall roll away the stone?" It was no new question. Agonizing grief, doubt, fear, unbelief had by turns been asking it through the ages. From the fatal day when the first grave was dug the human heart had been asking it eagerly, anxiously. No human hand could roll the stone away from the sepulchre. None but God could do it. But He has done it. The resurrection of Jesus brought life and immortality to light. The address entered sympathetically into the tremendous obstacles in the way of belief, and then in a forceful way presented the many infallible proofs of the resurrection life.

At the conclusion of the discourse a large number of people were welcomed into the fellowship of the church, some by certificate, others on profession of faith. It was a touching sight to see the large congregation rise to its feet and sing the happy welcome, "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

The afternoon program was held under the auspices of the Bible school, assisted by I. S. Williams, assistant superintendent. The choir again rendered music that thrilled the children as well as the adult congregation. The program was simple and worshipful. A song by a group of girls, two anthems by the choir, Easter hymns by the school, Scripture reading by Mr. Williams, an address by the minister, comprised the program. An impressive part of it was the administration of the rite of baptism to Master James Philip Tobey, of Englewood, N. J., whose two grandmothers are Mrs. Franklin Tobey and Mrs. Edmora Crispell, both of Kingston and members of the First Dutch Church.

The expressions of appreciation of the musical program of the day have been so many and so spontaneous that requests for repeating some of it next Sunday will be granted.

Winter Grains And Pasture

Both Make Satisfactory Showing in New York State—Farm Wages Highest on Record Except in 1920.

Winter wheat, rye and pasture are in much better condition than they were a year ago at this time, according to the state-federal crop report just issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

From the reports furnished by the farmers throughout New York state, it is estimated that the condition of winter wheat is now 89 per cent compared with 75 per cent on April 1st a year ago and 86 per cent the average for the past ten years. This condition figure would be still higher were it not for the somewhat low condition of the wheat which was sown very late last fall. No forecast of the crop, however, will be made until after the amount of the abandonment has been determined on May 1st.

In contrast with the low condition of winter wheat over the entire eastern section of the winter wheat belt last April stands the unusually high condition figure this April throughout the eastern, central and north-central sections of the country. The North Atlantic states show a condition of 83 per cent of normal compared with 76.7 last year and the north Central a condition of 82.5 compared with 81.8 last year. The condition in the South Central is estimated at 86.7 against 90.2 in 1926.

U. S. Winter Wheat Record.

For the United States, as a whole, the condition for winter wheat was reported to be 84.5 on April 1, the highest April 1 conditions since 1921.

Rye is becoming of less and less importance in New York state but still there are sections where rye is the only winter grain grown The condition of rye on April 1 was reported to be 90 compared with 84 per cent a year ago and an average of 88 for the past ten years.

For the United States, the condition of rye was reported to be 86.4 compared with 80.2 in 1926 and 85.8 the average for the past ten years.

Reports from the foreign wheat growing countries indicate that the condition of the world winter wheat crop up to the present date is generally favorable for a good production. The acreage for this year's crop is reported to be 3.4 per cent greater than last and, in most cases, the weather, since seeding, has been favorable. The weather conditions between now and the time for harvest, however, are of all importance in determining the final yield.

Highest Farm Wage.

The farm wage in New York state is now reported to be the highest of any April 1 farm wage since 1920, and, with the exception of 1920, the highest April 1 farm wage on record. Without board, the average wage now paid is $71.00 per month compared with $69.75 last April and with board it is $49.75 per month compared with $49.25 a year ago. Closeness to industrial centers, where high wages are paid, make the farm wage in the North Central and the North Atlantic States, the highest in the United States.

Green Endorses VFW Poppy Plan

President of A. F. of L. Gives Warm Endorsement to Buddy Poppy Sale Which Will Be Conducted Memorial Day Week.

New York, April 18.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has signified by letter his warm endorsement and approval of the forthcoming annual national sale of Buddy Poppies, made by disabled and needy ex-service men, which is conducted during the week of Memorial Day by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to raise funds for relief work.

"It is with interest that I learn * * * of the preparation which you are now making for your annual Buddy Poppy Sale," said Mr. Green in expressing his accord with the 1927 sale, plans for which are already actively under way. "You have my warmest wishes for the success of the sale. I note that part of the proceeds from this year's sale will be set aside for the new National Home for widows and orphans of ex-service men. This is a most worthy undertaking and I am sure it will heartily be supported by all those of our citizenship who have an appreciation and understanding of the tremendous service rendered our people, our government and humanity by those who served in the late war."

Mr. Green's endorsement this spring re-affirms the endorsement which he has annually extended to the Buddy Poppy plan, following the precedent of the late Mr. Gompers.

Labor unions and trades associations representing many branches of trade and industry throughout the country also endorse the Buddy Poppy plan each year. Among those who have already officially commended the 1927 sale through individual locals or district councils are: Amalgamated Lithographers of America; International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada; Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America; United Textile Workers of America; Associated Musicians of Greater New York, and the Actors' Equity Association.

ZENA COUNTRY CLUB PREPARES FOR MINSTRELS.

Zena, April 18.—There will be a dance at the Zena Country Club on Wednesday evening, April 27, for members and their guests only. Music will be furnished by the Country Club orchestra and the ever popular Pete Boice.

The Zena Country Club has been rehearsing diligently to present a minstrel performance. The date has now been set, Wednesday evening, May 4. Following the minstrels there will be a one act comedy, "The Old-fashioned Country School", which is full of many hearty laughs. Following the program there will be dancing with music by the favorites, Pete Boice and the Club orchestra.

Those who attended the minstrel show of the club last year will remember what a good time they had and the arrangement committee promise that their audience will leave after the entertainment just as pleased as last year and will reserve May 4 for the Zena Country Club minstrel show.

The regular progressive pinochle party last Wednesday evening was as successful as ever, Mrs. Fred Hammond winning lady's prize, Bill Klementis, gentleman's prize and Paul Joyce the consolation prize. Following the games refreshments were served by the committee and a social hour followed.
